Your A-Z Guide to New York City's September Art Fairs

Salon Zürcher

Rhea Nayyar September 1, 2023

If the Barbie movie left you craving more fervent celebrations of woman-focused artistry, then your first stop should be Salon Zürcher. Free for all visitors, the East Village's Zürcher Gallery presents The 11 Women of Spirit, Part 8 for its 29th fair iteration. In its continued exploration of women's overshadowed intellect, the Bleecker Street space invites us to consider the works of 11 emerging and mid-career women artists through its "intimate alternative" to the commercial giants that dominate NYC's art fair season. Salon Zürcher connects collectors directly to the featured artists, including but not limited to Elizabeth Bisbing, whose gawky gouache collages embody the constraints and comforts of domesticity, and Margie Neuhaus, whose mixed-media practice is driven by tracings and process-based investigation.
